plans

Hi Mark,

Thanks for the information. I need to check in with Adrienne Klein, as she will be monitoring your permit. She will let you know if she needs any plans in addition to those that you recently sent to Redwood City.

Thanks,

Andrea

Hi Andrea,

In Jeffrey Churchill's letter of August 19, 2005, he said that BCDC should not have to obtain plans from Redwood City, that they should have come directly to BCDC.

The site preparation drawings we are working under was prepared 12/5/03 and I hand delivered a set to BCDC in early 2004, as we arranged via email. Shortly thereafter I began work with import dirt from a Redwood City Redevelopment Project--you may recall the permit modification for this. The six-drawing set is the same as sent to Redwood City Engineering, and at the same time I also brought the guarantee for public access. The guarantee got mired for a while between attorneys, so maybe that's where the drawings got sidetracked.

There is a new set of drawings for the Redwood City Use Permit, and includes utilities for all development phases and shows slightly modified building positions. (We set aside 10% of the building footprints for landscaping as requested by BCDC, and the boat house is moved and much bigger to accommodate various rowing groups.) As I mentioned to you at the site, as soon as Redwood City OK's them I will send a set to you.

Best regards,

mark
